Student of the Month February 2010

When it comes to being concerned about progress she is the tops. She works to progress and get credit and will do whatever it takes to get it done. She is always prepared with work, she asks questions when she does not understand, gets mad at the math when it is hard and she celebrates her successes when she does well. She is a model student and positively influences those around her. The Mathematics department proudly nominates Lexi Parrott for Student of the Month for February 2010.
