

Som September 2011

Eden Wicks

With fire in her eyes and sweetness in her heart she set out this month to get her sophomore year going, and that is what she did. She is a typical Avanti student, minding her own business, doing the required homework, and staying friendly & helpful to those around her – I am sure I have not heard a negative word out of her mouth. “Sensational”, that is what her twenty-day review grades were, in all of her classes, not to mention that she already completed Algebra that was held over from last year. She is on a path of positive slope, graphing her way through the angles and asymptotes of Geometry. I have a feeling that she will earn a bunch of credits this year and enjoy every minute of it. With no hesitation, the Mathematics Department proudly nominates Eden Wicks for Student of the Month for September 2011.