William V. Lahmann, Superintendent

Student of the Month January 2010

Reliable, Friendly, Trustworthy, Talented, Pretty, and Determined... These are a few words that describe this nominee. She has Avanti flowing through her veins (and arteries). Let me tell you about her and Math – not exactly her favorite subject (yet). She is determined to conquer the ins-and-outs of Algebra and Geometry. She does every homework assignment with intimate detail, asks questions for the concepts that elude her, and takes tests like a champion. I suspect, one day, she will look back on her experiences in Math and laugh that contagious laugh of her. These are some of the reasons why the Mathematics Department nominates Joanna Naff for Student of the Month for January 2010.
